

Academic Society for Functional Foods and Bioactive Compounds

New Society Features & Benefits for the Academic Society for Functional Foods and Bioactive Compounds (ASFFBC)

Welcome to this week's newsletter! As you may know, the Academic Society for Functional Foods and Bioactive Compounds was created to help educate others on the field and better the health of people worldwide. We were established in 1998, and since then have had 25 international conferences. We have even partnered with the USDA, UCLA, Harvard, and UCSB in the past. We have published 30 books, and 6 textbooks. Our 7th textbook will be regarding the topic of mental health, and our members have the exclusive opportunity to submit their writing to our newest textbook.

We are also known for our definition of functional foods as follows: "natural or processed foods that contain biologically-active compounds; which, in defined, effective non-toxic amounts, provide a clinically proven and documented health benefit utilizing specific biomarkers, for the prevention, management, or treatment of chronic disease or its symptoms".

Becoming a member of our Academic Society will help set you apart in the rapidly growing field of functional foods and bioactive compounds. Finding a job in the field can be a challenge, but were here to help make the process easier and help you stand out to employers.

We have variety of membership categories for you to explore, such as: dietitians, nutritionists, medical doctors, scientists, and other medical industry professionals.
